THE BANKRUPTCY ROADMAP

IMPORTANT TERMS:

Bankruptcy can be a very confusing subject. However, this guide will save you and your attorney time and trouble. ALL legal documents have a title. It is not a letter when it is stamped U.S. Bankruptcy Court. It is a LEGAL DOCUMENT. All legal documents have a title. Please see the title and check with the list below. It will save you a telephone call. And please remember, your attorney gets copies of ALL legal documents that are sent to you. It is his job to worry about what the court needs – not yours. If he needs something, he will contact you. There is no need to call your attorney and read the document out verbatim. He has a copy. Please save his time and yours – consult this list if you need understanding.

Bankruptcy Estate: from the moment you file bankruptcy, an estate is created, essentially freezing in time the assets that you have. The date of your bankruptcy filing is crucial, as this is used to determine what the estate consists of.

§341 Creditor's Hearing: despite its name, creditor rarely show up but do have the right to question you. The trustee will question you about your assets and income while you are under oath.

Automatic Stay: because bankruptcy is a federal court jurisdiction, lower courts cannot do anything until they receive OK from the bankruptcy estate. This means that repossessions, foreclosures and other civil actions must end. However, this does not apply to residential evictions.

Motion to Lift the Stay: filed by a creditor in bankruptcy court so that the creditor can continue with a civil action. Most of the time, mortgage companies will file these in order to continue a foreclosure.

Exemptions: despite the fact that the bankruptcy essentially freezes your assets, certain items are exempt from the bankruptcy estate. Generally, this is your homestead, $1,000 of personal property per person, and $1,000 of automobile equity per person.

Discharge: this document only indicates that you are no longer personally liable for the bankruptcy debts. However, this can be taken away under certain circumstances. It does NOT mean the bankruptcy is over.

Stipulation: agreement with trustee to surrender or repurchase excessive property

Final Decree: closes the bankruptcy case

Motion Objecting to Exemptions: if you exceed your exemptions under the law, the trustee files this. This is ROUTINE!

Motion for 2004 Examination: if the trustee has asked for some sort of document and you haven't provided it, he will ask for a court order that you appear at his office with the documents. This is a serious motion, and such a motion should be unnecessary if you comply with the trustee's requests.

Proof of Claim: because you are on the court's mailing list, along with your creditor, you will get this. It is for your creditors. IGNORE IT!

Means Test: Since October 17, 2005, all bankruptcy filers must undergo a financial test to determine if they really are eligible for Chapter 7 bankruptcy. Your attorney will explain this in detail.

Reaffirmation Agreement: agreement whereby you agree to repay your debts in full to a particular creditor (for instance a car, house, or credit card). NOTE: after this is signed, you agree that if you later default on this loan, your creditor can sue you and get a judgment.

Most of these documents are motions. Motions are requests. ORDERS are documents signed by a judge either deciding an issue OR settling an issue. Thus, an Order Sustaining Objections to Exemptions, simply means that the judge agreed with the trustee's motion. It is not another reason to call your attorney.

You DO want to call your attorney if you have forgotten something or if a creditor is harassing you. These are things your attorney will NOT already know.

BANKRUPTCY

Assets. LIST ALL OF YOUR ASSETS. You can list assets by groups of similar property, e.g. "furniture", "clothing", "personal effects", etc.

Debts. LIST ALL OF YOUR DEBTS, including relatives and friends. Your attorney can discuss with you the procedure for "reaffirming" a debt to a creditor. If you have debts that are disputed, list them. If you have potential debts for which no one has yet made a direct claim against you, list them. If in doubt as to whether a creditor should be listed, list them. LIST ALL OF YOUR DEBTS. Failure to list a creditor can result in you not being discharged of your obligation to that creditor.

Amendments. If for some reason we have to amend your bankruptcy (leaving a creditor off, not disclosing income, etc.) a $200 amendment fee will apply. In addition, you will have to pay courts costs, if any. Therefore, it pays to get it done correctly the first time.

Executory Contracts. These are contracts such as leases, real estate contracts, health clubs, timeshares, etc., for which either or both parties to the contract have not yet fully performed their obligations under the contract. In all likelihood you should also list these parties as creditors too.

Income. If you are employed, attach a typical recent pay stub to the section on Income. If your income varies, attach several representative paystubs that show the range of your pay. If you are self-employed or you are a corporation or partnership, attach a financial statement showing your monthly income.

Expenditures. Your ability to file a Chapter 13 reorganization depends upon the accuracy of your estimated living expenses.
